TRANSPORTATION & ENVIRONMENTAL

Contact: Corey Hull

The SGRC's Transportation and Environmental Programs serve local governments in planning activities and deliver vital transportation services to clients. Since 2002, the SGRC has been the federally-designated Metropolitan Planning Organization for the Valdosta Urbanized Area, carrying out various long- and short-range transportation planning activities around metropolitan Valdosta. The SGRC also provides transportation planning services to rural counties in the region through a funding partnership with the Georgia Department of Transportation. These services are primarily focused on rural transit and bicycle/pedestrian infrastructure planning. The SGRC Coordinated Human Service Transportation Program serves, on average, 500 trips per day (for clients of Georgia Department of Human Services and other state agencies). These individuals receive transportation for a number of purposes including medical appointments, senior center attendance, and mental health program participation.
